NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Chapter III, Title XXVI Civil Code, Revised Statutes of Arizona, 1916, entitled: "Juries and Jurors," notice is hereby given that Honorable F. H. Lyman, Judge of Division No. 2 of the Superior Court of Maricopa County, State of Arizona, has made and filed in my office an order directing that a Trial Jury of fifty (50) be drawn to be in attendance on said Court October 16th, 1916, at 9 o'clock A. M., and thereafter as their presence may be required. And that I have this day notified the Sheriff of Maricopa County, and the County Recorder of Maricopa County, State of Arizona, to attend at the Court-room of Division No. 2 of the Superior Court in the Court House of Maricopa County, or in the room in which the said Court is held, on Monday, October 23, 1916, at the hour of 11:00 A. M. for the purpose of drawing the said Trial Jury.

WITNESS my hand and the seal of said Court this 27th day of September, A. D. 1916.
JAMES MILLER, JR.,
Clerk of the Superior Court of Maricopa County, State of Arizona.
By J. ELMER JOHNSON,
Deputy.

NON-PARTISAN Candidate for "COUNTY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT"

General Election Nov. 7, 1916

TO THE VOTERS OF MARICOPA COUNTY:

There has long been an insistent demand that the county superintendent of schools be removed from party politics. Party support involves obligation and debt to party, which must and will be paid. To the extent that the officer is thus hampered, he cannot serve the cause of true education. As yet, no candidate has dared combat the straight vote item to reform this condition. No teacher has yet been willing to risk his meager savings in an individual contest with opponents supported by the campaign funds of a party. I have determined to make the venture—believing that the cause is just, submitting that my qualifications are superior to those of either of the slate candidates, and confidently relying upon the intelligence and discrimination of a controlling number of the electorate.

Being the only young man in the race, I answer a demand clearly made by the primary returns of September 12, for a man of this generation for this generation of rural schools. Of the three candidates on the Democratic ticket, Mr. Fulton received 2389 votes—only 173 more than Mr. Jones, who received 2216. Mr. Standage received 1080 votes, bringing the total vote cast for the two young men to 3296—or nearly 1000 votes more than were cast for the old school candidate, Mr. Fulton. There were 1085 citizens registered non-partisan or its equivalent. Registered as such, these persons could not take part in the primaries. An inspection of the list shows that as a class, they are vitally interested in education—teachers, ministers, mothers. Conversation with half their number revealed a preponderant opinion that a young man abreast the times should have charge of our rural schools.

The Republican ticket offers no relief for the situation. That nominee is senior even to the Democratic candidate, preceding him as superintendent more than twenty years ago, when the office was an adjunct to the probate judgeship. He has not been connected with our schools since, and cannot be said to represent the will of the votes cast for him, as the Republican electors had no other name to vote upon.

In asking for your votes for this position, I desire to state some of the reasons why I am fitted for the office. Being a graduate of the Tempe Normal School in the class of 1903, and of the University of Missouri in the class of 1909, my education is abundant and recent. My seven years' experience as teacher and principal has been, for the most part, in the rural schools. The fact that as a farmer boy, I worked my own way thru normal school and university, has given me a sympathy for the country child struggling for an education that is real indeed. I know where obstacles are and would remove as many of them as possible.

My platform contains two planks: (1) Removal of the office from party politics, and (2) Development of the county unit for rural school administration as rapidly as our conditions will permit.

I have lived in Salt River Valley about fifteen years; have taught in several of its schools, and my personal integrity and ability as a teacher are established. If elected to the office I seek, I shall enter upon its duties with devotion, and execute them with diligence and vigor.

BELGIUM WILL COME BACK INTO PLACE IN SUN

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

HAVRE, France, Sept. 30.—Belgium will come back to her own, to her place in the sun, and to complete freedom and independence," said Baron Beyens, minister of foreign affairs of Belgium, in the course of an authorized interview given to the Associated Press.

Baron Beyens is one of the notable figures of the present war, for up to the beginning of the war he was the Belgian minister at Berlin, and the immediate entry of England, France and all Europe into the seething struggle. Then, leaving Berlin, he entered the Belgian cabinet, and has since directed the foreign affairs of the country, finding time also to write a book which graphically describes "the work of tragedy" at the German capital when the British and French ambassadors and himself made their last attempt to prevent the European conflict.

The ministry of foreign affairs, where Baron Beyens was seen, is installed at Ste. Adresse, a suburb of Havre, in the Villa Hollandais, a rustic chalet occupied in ordinary times by seashore visitors, but now bearing on the outer gate a small placard, reading: "Ministère des Affaires Étrangères de Belgique." A foreign office usually suggests marble halls and big diplomatic rooms with ambassadors sitting among oil paintings and mahogany furnishings. But the Villa Hollandais has nothing of this kind. Three small pine structures have been put up in the garden for various diplomatic and consular branches. Inside the villa there is the simplicity of a summer cottage, but everything is scrupulously well done and effective.

Baron Beyens expressed at the outset the deep sense of appreciation felt by Belgium toward the people of the United States, and, in particular, toward those who had directed the work of sending food supplies to Belgium.

"I am always glad to meet an American," said he, "and to express my gratitude to your people in general and to those who have literally saved our people from starvation. It is difficult for me to say how much we feel indebted to Mr. Hoover, head of the committee directing the relief work of Belgium. He has proved himself a man of great resources and great ability in the gigantic task of providing for a whole nation which found itself suddenly threatened with starvation or at least with cruel privation. It was a task moreover requiring much diplomatic tact as well as business knowledge, for the relief committee was obliged to deal between the German officials on the one hand and the allied officials on the other. But all this has been accomplished with infinite skill; obstacles which seemed at times insurmountable have been overcome, and practical results have been reached which are of the highest importance to Belgium and the Belgian people."

"The American minister at Brussels, Mr. Brand Whitlock, has also won our unbounded admiration and respect in performing a work of colossal magnitude under most trying conditions. Remaining at Brussels while the government was constrained by circumstances to establish itself temporarily outside of Belgium, the American minister has been, with the vigorous Spanish colleague, the outwork between our citizens remaining in the invaded regions and the German military and civil authorities temporarily in control. Outside of the horrors and atrocities of war which have been committed, the ordinary administration of civil affairs has been carried out with an iron hand and with rigorous harshness. In all this Minister Whitlock has stood between our people and the rigors of the German military administration, and such lenience as we have received has come largely through his energetic and discreet intervention."

"But," added the minister, "the names of Americans who have shown this good will toward Belgium in very practical ways is almost unlimited—Dr. Watson of the American Church at Paris, and Mrs. Watson, Mr. Bliss, the American charge d'affaires at Paris, and his wife, Mrs. Wharton, the well-known American writer, and many, many others. To all of them Belgium is deeply thankful."

Turning now to international affairs, in which he had taken such an active part at the debut of the war, Baron Beyens went on:

"We had every reason to remain at peace with Germany. Belgium had no hostility to Germany. We had many Germans among us, as you have in America, and many of our people spoke the German language. A spirit of good feeling and of confidence prevailed so far as we were concerned. I have reason to know this as I was Minister at Berlin up to the opening of the war, and had opportunity to observe the mutual relations existing."

"Germany is almost unlimited—Dr. Watson of the American Church at Paris, and Mrs. Watson, Mr. Bliss, the American charge d'affaires at Paris, and his wife, Mrs. Wharton, the well-known American writer, and many, many others. To all of them Belgium is deeply thankful."

"In refusing the demand of Germany to cross Belgium, we were simply performing a duty. We were bound to act toward our German neighbor to the east just as we would have done toward our French neighbor to the west, for our duty and all our interests tended to maintain the same attitude toward the powerful neighbors on our two frontiers. Suppose France had been the one to ask the right to cross Belgium and to attack Germany. We would have been bound to refuse it. And had such a demand ever been made, and ever been granted, what would Germany have said? It would have denounced us as violators of a treaty, and as false and dishonorable. Doubtless the world would have agreed with this view, had Belgium taken such a course."

"But happily, this contingency did not arise. France never sought to enter Belgium. Yet here again Germany has sought to set up a legend that French designs on Belgium led to the German invasion of the country. But that legend has been abundantly disproven. No Germany's course in entering Belgium was purely a strategic military operation, carefully planned long in advance, and without the slightest justification of being a defensive move against French designs. Against that, our king and government took the only path open to them—the path of honor. There was nothing remaining but to defend our freedom, sword in hand, at the price of the nation's best blood—a freedom that the Germans, after defeating France, would have withheld from us all the more scornfully had we been weak enough to listen to them and cowardly enough to obey them."

"But Belgium will have her compensation when her complete independence and freedom are established as part of the peace settlement and an adequate indemnity has been provided for her and the time of reckoning is fast approaching. Rumania is the latest to speak and to cast the weight of her influence, and power in the balance on the side of the allies. Belgium has shaped her course, and with the powerful support of her allies—England, France, Russia, Italy, Japan, Portugal, Serbia and now Rumania—she will sustain her part of the burden of war to the very end. Belgium will come back to her own, in her place in the sun, and to complete freedom and independence."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

NOTICE TO ARCHITECTS

The Board of Regents of the University of Arizona in accordance with the provisions of the laws of Arizona hereby advertises for plans and specifications in detail for a College of Mines and Engineering Building, to be erected upon the grounds of the University of Arizona, near the City of Tucson, County of Pima, State of Arizona.

The sum authorized to be expended for the erection of said structure, including architect's premium and the fee for superintending the construction is the sum of $150,000. The premium which is to be awarded to the architect whose plans and specifications for said building may be adopted is 3 per cent of the total amount appropriated for the purpose aforesaid, and the fee for superintending the construction of said building is 2 per cent of the total amount so appropriated.

The architect whose plans and specifications may be adopted, before any premium shall be awarded therefore, must execute and file with the said Board of Regents a good and sufficient bond with two sufficient sureties thereto, or with an approved surety company as such, in the penal sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), said bond to be approved by said Board of Regents, conditioned that within sixty days from the date of said bond the said architect will, on presentation to him, enter into a contract containing such conditions and provisions as may be required by the said Board of Regents, and also that he will give such further bond to secure him in the faithful performance of such contract with such sureties as may be required of him, in the event that said Board of Regents should within sixty days require said architect to enter into such contract to erect said structure at the price aforesaid.

The preliminary plans and specifications in detail for such building must be submitted to the said Board of Regents at the office of the President of the University of Arizona upon the grounds of said University by 12 o'clock M. of the fifteenth day of December, 1916.

The said Board of Regents reserves the right to reject any or all of the plans and specifications which may be submitted according to the program of the competition, and also reserves the right to make its own provision for the superintendence of the erection of said building, and pictures of several of said buildings may be secured on application to Dr. R. B. von KleinSmid, President of the University of Arizona, at his office upon the grounds of said University, Board of Regents of the University of Arizona.
